Has there ever been a country that didn't tightly control press access to military information in time of war? Look at Russia in Chechnia and then tell me this is an American problem! By declaring what is essentially a criminal manhunt to be a War On Terrorism, Dubya's minions have established the necessary nominal conditions to restrict and control information flow. Methinks, there is some all-too-suspiciously Bushy, wooly blindfolding descending inexorably over ol' Brucie's brow, right now, sho' nuff! How so, Aaron? I just call 'em as I see 'em

Yup. The parallels between Rome, Britain, and the U.S.A. can be pretty startling

In my view there isn't much difference between an empire which kills 10 thousand or 10 million innocent women and children. Any empire that could but doesn't avoid killing innocent people, including women and children is barbaric, and clearly - evil. The people are all ok -everywhere - it's the leadership which is massively corrupt. I'd like to carry that message a bit further and say that even the men killed are innocent victims of their governments and religious leaders, having been misled to what it means to be noble or spiritual. I consider all sinners to be innocent for one or more of the following reasons: 1) They did not know they were sinning (and/or) 2) They did not understand the importance of avoiding their sin (and/or) 3) They did not know how to avoid the sin One or more of those three apply to each one of us that continues to sin and collect karma.

Hitler was a highly motivated, charismatic fanatic who came to power in an impoverished, resentful country. Dubya is a mediocre jerk who is pretty much a marionette on strings pulled by people like Cheney, Rumsfeld, Ashcroft, and Wolfowitz

Eventually this dysfunctional family of ours will be well - it will take some time and a lot of work to get there. You can start by looking within, Dotty. Then check out <http://www.ex-cult.org> for some pointers to freeing yourself from the yoke of Share International. You really DO have free will. You are not alone.

| /| not war! ~~~~~ Bishop: Clergy Must Unite People Against War in Iraq by Maureen Hayden The founder of a Christian peace movement told area religious leaders Monday that it wasn't enough for them to denounce a military strike against Iraq as unjust if they want to prevent a war. Roman Catholic Bishop Thomas Gumbleton holds up a New York Times advertisement as he speaks against a possible war in Iraq. Gumbleton is an auxiliary bishop in the Diocese of Detroit. (Courier-Press Photo/Vincent Pugilese) They have to get the people in their pews to feel the same way, and then convince them to act on that sentiment. I'm confident we can build a momentum against a war," said Roman Catholic Bishop Thomas Gumbleton, despite what appears to be happening in Washington right now. Gumbleton spoke Monday afternoon to a group of more than 50 Evansville-area religious leaders who gathered at the University of Evansville's Neu Chapel to hear the longtime peace activist. He spoke later to a more general audience at the University of Southern Indiana, explaining his opposition to the Bush administration's plans to make a pre-emptive strike against Iraqi leader Saddam Hussein.

And we'll conveniently ignore the murders/massacres of 10+ million Native Americans - and tens of millions of buffaloes that were also shot and left to rot where they fell, and we broke every treaty that we made with those 'savages'. None of that matters, because we're so great and God has always been on our side. Bush had nothing to do with any of that either.

Who said that? You compared Hitler to Bush. I pointed out the difference. As much of a moron as he is, Bush hasn't killed thousands of anybody yet. That's a matter of opinion. Thousands have died at the hands of the American military as a result of Bush Jr., and thousands die daily as a result of the administrations lack of action on world hunger and disease.

Bush had nothing to do with any of that either. I didn't say he does. The point is that the USA isn't nearly as great as the 'authorities' would like the masses to believe.

So if mr.Bush or Mr.Thomson, or Mr. Barley or any body DOES open a WAR, he will get the same for sure! We will see it. Best Wishes, PUMA

yet. it's my understanding that about 4,000 Afghanistan civilians have been killed in the past year, and a few thousand are crippled for life. The war on terrorism has been costly in this regard. However, as horrible as it is, it's small potatoes compared to WW2 and the Holocaust. You called Bush a Hitler with unrepentant glee. Your own Alice Bailey had some admiration for the man. Would she have admired the same qualities in Bush? Bush had nothing to do with any of that either. I didn't say he does. The point is that the USA isn't nearly as great as the 'authorities' would like the masses to believe. Everyone knows that except the few rabid patriots you assume us all to be.
