To Smoke em.... Take a knife and scrape off all the gell/glue from the back, then get some tin foil and a straw and put the ball of goo on the tin foil and heat it from the bottom and suck the smoke through the straw... To inject them.... Take the patch and put it in a cooker (its easier if you cut it into 4 but you dont have to) then add 60 of viniger and 70 of water (this is talking of standard 1cc insulin syriinges) cook it down a bit so when you pull it into the needle there should be around 50 or60 in it, then fill the rest to 100 with water and your good to go (and no with the viiniger diluted like that it wont sting/ burn) smoked 2.5 mg patch, meant to deliver content in 72 hours(a 25 one like you call it), when the total amount is shot in one go a non tolerated person dies also even people with a reasonable tolerance say 1/2 gram heroin smoked a day will puke. I would just like you that when a smoking question is asked about a very potent substance you leave it up to there as you should not forget that people try lots of things if a fent patch hapens to be around and nothing else, but without able to take it goodbye. I hope you dont take my words wrongly, because this is not a flame and i am as far from a saint can be myself, but i just saw to many decent people die when they would just have known. When you mention a 25 patch smoked delivered a 'bad' nod (bad?) suppose you shoot a 100 patch dont know i think you live, but for a while you feel like wanting to die based on your named tolerance. Your info is correct that's not an issue, but could you please also deliver a few warnings when you talk fent, thank you. Fentanyl patches in holland come in a sticker form without gel so shooting is not possible as far as i know, but chewing such a patch, a 100, made people skyhigh used to 1-2 grams a day. Heroin here is around 35% for decades already. Regards, Freek.
